“ Frances was a huge part of my childhood. We had so many laughs of how she always tried to take this picky little city girl who hated bugs and hated to get dirt on her, to having her dig in the dirt picking potatoes and dealing with the drama of seeing a turkey hanging from Fran's ceiling as she was plucking it. Frances introduced me to blueberry picking and so much more. But most of all she showed me how much she cared about me constantly throughout my childhood and beyond. I truly love her so much and always will sincerely Debbie

“ Fran was my step mom. I loved and cherished all we had together since we met for the first time. She had an open heart and open arms full of love, teaching and learning together with many things. I will be forever grateful for her. She had an open door for anyone who needed it. I loved crocheting and sewing with her. She taught me so much. But her love was so big that it will stay with me for a life time. THANK YOU so much dear woman who allowed me to be her daughter even after she lost her husband and I lost my dad. My heart is yours forever.

“ Well Frances, I missed seeing you one last time. I didn't know you wouldn't wait until I got there the next morning. I'll miss our daily calls, I'll miss the lobster lunches, I'll miss your laugh, I'll miss your sarcastic replies to so many things, and most of all I'll always regret the one last thing I wanted to do for you and missed my chance because I waited one more day to come see you. We'll all miss you dearly, there never was and never will be another like you. Yo ti Amo little sister.
